The One-Armed Cobbler

In the old store on EXCHANGE and STATE
His fortune to wrest from the hand of Fate,
He hammers and triumphs, both early and late.

O sadly the heart of our hero did grieve,
Till Heaven consented his lot to relieve,
With two willing arms for that "empty sleeve."

The Muse in the cap of sweet Love puts a feather,
At both ends of the thread, in fair and foul weather,
When their hands pull apart, their hearts pull together.

O lovers and maidens, please linger no more,
Go straight to the parson's and knock at the door,
But your stars for the light of the "STAR" Shoe Store.

POOR BLOOD! Nearly every ailment with which our race is afflicted can be traced to poor blood. Correct that and the trouble will disappear.

BELL'S SARSAPARILLA Is the Remedy to do it. This medicine has been found a valuable preparation for Neuralgic and Rheumatic Pains, Kidney Troubles, &c. showing that to correct and restore the blood at the proper time will insure health the whole year.

BELL'S SARSAPARILLA has received more testimonials from those who have been benefited by it than all others put together in Eastern Maine. It is sold in nearly every town and is the leader in spring medicines. If you have tried other preparations and been disappointed, do not class Bell's Sarsaparilla with them, even if you do not choose to try that.

Read the following Statement from one of Bangor's well-known Citizens: BANGOR, April 15, 1884. Some fourteen months since I accidentally caught my foot in a chain attached to a sled and was thrown violently to the ground, receiving a severe injury to the right hip and leg. It caused me months of suffering, from lameness, stiffness of the joints, rheumatic pains, etc. I tried different medicines, liniments, etc., but received no lasting benefit. Feeling that I needed a blood medicine, I procured a bottle of BELL'S SARSAPARILLA which I have taken, and I am greatly improved in health. It has removed the stiffness of the joints, cured the pain which I suffered, and I feel as well as before the accident. Knowing how much this medicine has done for me, I heartily recommend it to all. B. LEWIS, 115 Essex St., Bangor.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The case of Phillips vs. Hogan, a Lisbon druggist, was before the S. J. Court at Auburn, Wednesday afternoon. Judge Wing, counsel for the defendant, moved that the writ be indorsed as the plaintiff lives out of the State. Mr. Phillips claimed that his home is now in Portland and that he had closed out his property in Massachusetts and come to Maine with the intention of making this State his home. He was examined by the court. After an examination of the plaintiff the court suggested that if the plaintiff still desired to do so, the deposition of parties as to residence had better be taken, the court expressing belief that the plaintiff is not a resident of Maine.

Aroostook.

Fire in Littleton last Wednesday afternoon, damaged the house and furniture of G. C. Hayward, Jr., nearly one thousand dollars.

Cumberland.

A sailor on board the bark Anna Walsh, lying at Railroad Wharf, Portland, fell into the hold of the vessel Saturday night, and was terribly injured.

E. R. Brown, formerly deputy sheriff of Cumberland county, and who for several years has been engaged in stock-raising in Nebraska, is suffering with paralysis of the legs to such an extent that he has been compelled to abandon his business. He goes to Chicago temporarily for treatment.

Says the Brunswick Telegraph: We have often heard of the natural long hair worn by a lady of Topsham, but never saw it until one day this week. The owner of it is Miss Emily J. Whitten. The hair extended to her feet, and then for two and one half to three feet over a newspaper spread to receive it, and is between eight and nine feet long.

Alden J. Blethen, Esq., who removed from Portland to assume the position of business manager of the Kansas City (Mo.) Journal, has just disposed of his interest in that paper for $50,000.

Officers Harris and Lawton, of Portland, made search in the freight yard of the Eastern R. R. Co., for liquor, Sunday morning. They found and seized 18½ barrels of ale. Judging by the marks on the barrels, it was intended for the following named parties: James E. Cady, 10 barrels; John Feeney, 5 barrels; Timothy Twigg, 3½ barrels. The same officers, two weeks ago seized 10 barrels of ale in the same yard belonging to James E. Cady.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gould celebrated their silver wedding, at their residence on State street, Portland, recently, with a family party. Mr. Gould has been cashier of the First National Bank for many years, and the directors desiring to testify their appreciation of his services presented him on this occasion with a superb silver service.

The directors of the Boston and Maine railroad are determined that nothing shall be left undone to make their road perfectly safe. The opening, in the early part of the coming season, of the double track from Biddeford to Portland, will enable them to handle the trains with greater safety and promptness. Not feeling satisfied with the iron bridges between those two cities, they are to take them all down and put up heavier and stronger ones. [illegible]

Kennebec.

The old and familiar "Clarion," which once plied between Augusta and Gardiner, now lies stranded in the vicinity of Page's Ice Houses, Hallowell. She was moored "in the ice" all last winter, in vicinity of Fuller's Foundry. As the ice broke up, the poor old boat made one grand effort to reach Gardiner, [illegible] unhappy result. The Clarion is now used as a lighter, and is the property of one of the Hallowell capitalists.

The U. S. steamer "Iris" came up the Kennebec river, Saturday, for the purpose of placing the buoys in the river. She stopped at Gardiner over the Sabbath. About twenty-five buoys are required for the Kennebec.

Sagadahoc.

Rev. F. W. Smith, who, for the past three years has had charge of the Methodist church in Richmond, left town Wednesday, with his family, to assume the pastorate of the Methodist church, at Gorham, N. H. During his stay in that place, Mr. Smith has been an indefatigable worker.

York.

The old Goose Fall bridge on the Boston & Maine was taken down Sunday and a new bridge put in its place. It required 250 men to do the work.

The State Convention

[illegible] in the history of the Republican [party] has there assembled a finer, more [illegible], or more representative convention than that which convened in Norombega [Hall yesterday]. That 1,184 delegates from [every] section of the State should travel [illegible] miles in many instances under the [most] discouraging circumstances, at an [unpro]pitious season of the year, to attend a convention in which it was generally understood there would be no contest whatever [of] particular interest, is one of the numerous signs of the times that [show] the spirit of determination that [anim]ates the whole Republican party [and] [illegible] to rally this fall as of old and roll up a rousing majority in the opening campaign in this State that shall carry consternation to the camp of the enemy and set [an] example that our sister states will not [be] slow to follow.

The business of the convention was [conduc]ted with enthusiastic and harmonious [action]. The convention being entirely free from any dissension whatever [illegible] having but one object, in [a] [illegible] to promote to the full extent [illegible] the greatest good [of] the whole State. The renomination of our [present] Chief Magistrate, Hon. Frederick Robie, was a merited compliment to the [illegible] of a pleasant and thoroughly [practi]cal [illegible] which he has discharged the duties of the high office to which he [was] [illegible] two years ago, and such an [endor]sement in such a notable gathering [is] [illegible] any citizen might well [feel] [illegible] just feeling of pride.

[The] reception accorded Gov. Robie as he [came] forward to acknowledge the honor [was a] guarantee that the men who placed [in his] hands the standard of the party will [see] to it that the action of the convention is [heartily] ratified at the polls in September next.

[The] platform upon which our candidates [stand is one] to which every Republican [can point] with satisfaction and pride. It [is outs]poken on all the great questions [of the day] of interest to the people, declaring [emph]atically for a system of protection [to] American skill and labor to [encourage] manufactures to augment [the] volume of our combined internal and [foreign] commerce, to expand our network [of] [illegible], thus increasing the value of [a]griculture and all the legitimate in[terest]s of America [illegible] labor and capital.

[Some] of those newspaper hir[elings] in Boston and elsewhere, who [have] [illegible] so diligently in their [efforts] to make it appear that Hon. [James] G. Blaine was not the first, second [and] last choice of the solid Republican [vote] of Maine, had been in this convention they would have seen how [illegible] [illegible] It was a Blaine [convention] [illegible] [collectively] [illegible] [the mention] of his name was the signal [for] enthusiastic applause. There are [illegible] excellent names mentioned in connection with the Presidency but as the [sense] of the convention said in this [illegible] people are looking [illegible] to Blaine, of Maine, who is the [choice] of a majority of the voters of [this country] and want to lead them to victory. [He] will be ably represented in the National Republican Convention by the distinguished gentlemen selected as delegates [to] the convention yesterday and at the [distric]t Conventions previously held.

A short time ago a Bangor correspondent [of] the Boston Advertiser announced that [there] [illegible] in the eastern part of the State [was] [illegible] in their support of Blaine. [There] was no evidence to support this [asser]tion in the action of the Fourth District [conven]tion yesterday. The resolution re[ferri]ng to Mr. Blaine was of the red hottest [kind].—Portland Press [Perha]ps this experience will lead the [corresp]ondent to attach more importance [to] the Whig's statements concerning political sentiment in this vicinity than to [illegible] news sent to the Boston [Adver]tiser.

Mr. Blaine's Chance.

[Boston Traveller, Arthur Organ.]

New York Tribune figures out for [Mr. Blaine] the most favorable chance for the [nomina]tion. In its opinion a conservative [estimate], carefully considered, marks the [fol]lowing votes to be cast at Chicago for Mr. Blaine.

[illegible]	[illegible]	8 New Jersey	14
[illegible]	[illegible]	14 New York	29
[illegible]	[illegible]	10 North Carolina,	4
[illegible]	[illegible]	6 Ohio	10
[illegible]	[illegible]	6 Oregon,	6
[illegible]	[illegible]	4 Pennsylvania,	48
[illegible]	[illegible]	10 Texas,	8
[illegible]	[illegible]	4 Virginia	8
[illegible]	[illegible]	12 West Virginia	10
[illegible]	[illegible]	8 Wisconsin	10
[illegible]	[illegible]	22
[illegible]	[illegible]	18 Territories
[illegible]	[illegible]	2 Arizona,	2
[illegible]	[illegible]	1 New Mexico	2
[illegible]	[illegible]	3 Dakota,	2
[illegible]	[illegible]	6 Washington	2
New England (including Maine 12)		Total,	358

The National Convention at Chicago will have 820 delegates, and 411 votes will be necessary to a choice. If the Tribune's figures above quoted turn out to be correct, Mr Blaine will only lack 53 votes of the 411 necessary to nominate him on the first ballot. No doubt this estimate is a sanguine one, but we are bound, in candor, to say we do not regard it as greatly over-estimating Mr. Blaine's probable strength. That he will have the largest single following of any candidate in the convention seems to be almost certain. For those worthy people whose sole wish is to defeat Mr. Blaine this prospect is assuredly not a comfortable one. To those other worthy people, who have been indulging the double dream of defeating both Blaine and Arthur the outlook is still more depressing. They have been relying on the experience of 1880, and drawing a parallel, putting Arthur in the place of Grant, and Blaine where he was before.

This analogy will surely break down, indeed it has already broken down. Mr. Blaine will stand more nearly in the place of Grant in 1880, alike in point of the numbers, the enthusiasm, and the obstinacy of his column of delegates. There the parallel will begin and end. It should be always remembered that what defeated both Grant and Blaine in 1880 was the equal enthusiasm and stubbornness of their respective supporters. Neither would give way to the other, so a third man became inevitable. It is useless to disguise the fact that Mr. Arthur's support is not of the kind that voted for Grant 30 times and refused to desert him even when it was evident that the battle was lost. Mr. Arthur has sought for no such compactly organized support, and he has none of it. It is very likely that he will not feel it consistent with his dignity and self respect to have his name kept before the convention for more than a few ballots. His strength will, if he withdraws, go somewhere, and the dangerous assumption of the any-thing-to-beat-Blaine people is, in our opinion, that the Arthur delegates can be transferred in a body to any dark horse who may then be trotted out.

We think the probabilities are strongly against such an assumption. Mr. Arthur's strength is largely among the Southern delegations. If he withdraws, who is there to guarantee that Mr. Blaine's old time popularity with the Southern Republicans will not add to his column enough delegates to nominate him? The Tribune says that "all through the South delegates now committed to other candidates are known to hold Mr. Blaine as their next choice." We see nothing improbable in this assertion. It tallies with history. In 1876 Mr Blaine received in the National Convention 114 votes from Alabama, 6 from Delaware, 4 from Florida, 3 from Georgia, 2 from Louisiana, 15 from Maryland, 4 from Missouri, 9 from North Carolina, 4 from Tennessee, and 2 from Texas—51 Southern votes in all.

If Mr. Arthur's name, on which the Southern Republicans are substantially united to-day, is taken out of the Chicago Convention, we should like to see the person who is able to give security that Mr. Blaine will not gather in enough Southern delegates on the very next ballot to be nominated. The any-thing-to-beat-Arthur-and-Blaine people have taken too large a contract. Blaine can be beaten by Arthur if Arthur is reinforced in time. But the moment that Arthur is withdrawn from the convention Blaine's supreme opportunity will have arrived. It looks to-day as though if Arthur were not nominated on one of the first few ballots, Blaine would be shortly afterwards.

A Question of Safety.

[New York Tribune.]

James G. Blaine has ceased to be a private individual, and by no act of his own. He has been deliberately chosen as the representative of the wishes and convictions of a large body of Republicans who desire to see him elected President. Knowing from the first that he did not wish to be a candidate, the Tribune made no effort to influence public opinion to his selection. Many warm friends of Mr. Blaine, in like manner, respected his personal wishes so far that they would do nothing to draw him from private life unless, without their agency, public opinion should again make him prominent. But the case has changed. Mr. Blaine is now the chosen representative of a powerful body of Republicans whose wishes the party cannot safely treat with disrespect. If there are valid reasons for preferring another candidate, it is right that they should be given. But the proposal to put him aside because somebody has lied about him will not be received with patience, and the assertion that Mr. Blaine is a dishonorable, unfit and unworthy man will be resented as an insult by a large body of Republicans.

These are the naked facts, which the party should now seriously consider. It is not a personal preference for this or that man with which the party has now to deal. It is a question whether the wishes of Republican voters are to be respected, or the desires of office-holders in Democratic districts. It is a question whether the campaign of personal vilification which began when it was found in 1876 that President Grant was not the choice of the majority in Republican States, and which followed President Garfield to his grave, shall now enable unscrupulous defamers to dictate to the Republican party.

At this hour, Mr. Blaine is the unquestioned choice of a majority of the Republican voters in Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oregon, Nevada and California. Two States are definitely for Mr. Edmunds, Massachusetts and Vermont. Illinois is definitely for Logan and Connecticut for Hawley, and the preference of two minor States may be disputed. These are all the States that the Republicans can expect to carry. The sixteen States in which the Republicans prefer Mr. Blaine cast 2,023,302 Republican votes, choose 194 electors, and gave for Garfield 400,000 majority. The two States that prefer Mr. Edmunds cast 210,772 Republican votes, choose 18 electors, and gave 80,000 majority.

The State for Mr. Logan cast 318,101 Republican votes, chooses 22 electors, and gave 7,000 majority. The State for Mr. Hawley cast 67,071 Republican votes, chooses 6 electors, and gave 3,000 majority. The two undeclared states cast 83,047 Republican votes, choose 8 electors, and gave 11,000 majority. Thus in the states that the Republicans can hope to carry, those for Mr. Blaine cast at least four-fifths of the Republican votes, choose 197 electors, and give 400,000 majority; while those for all other candidates, or undecided, cast in all 573,044 Republican votes, or less than one-fifth, choose 57 electors, and give 100,000 majority.

There remain sixteen states which the Republicans do not expect to carry. In these, by proscription, fraud and the shot-gun, the Democrats gave 490,000 majority in 1880, and these states now have 153 electoral votes. In some of them Mr. Blaine is the choice of the Republicans, but in most the influence of patronage dictates a different choice, as it did in 1876 and 1880. Thus the case, stands as follows:

	No.	Electors.	Rep. Vote	Majority
Rep. States, Blaine,	16	197	2,723,302	R. 398,920
Rep. States, other,	6	51	573,044	R. 100,156
Dem. States,	16	153	1,158,080	D. 490,474

The question is whether a nomination shall be dictated by the Democratic states, or by the minority of the Republican states in spite of the states upon which the party must depend for success.

Take away the States in which the Republicans have no hope of success, and Mr. Blaine would be nominated on the first ballot. Is that sort of preference to be beaten by defamation and patronage combined? If so, to whom would the nomination be of value? Can it be Mr. Arthur, who carries not one northern State, not even his own? Can it be Mr. Edmunds, who is proved to have done the very thing of which Mr. Blaine is falsely accused? Can it be some dummy, unimportant in force, in services, or in the history of the party, picked up because one faction or another can use him? Shall such a man, because of what he and the influence of patronage in Democratic States be placed above a strong statesman, whose abilities have made him a natural leader of opinion, and whose splendid leadership has brought the Republican party many of its victories? Will that be safe? Before doing such a thing, a Republican Convention may well consider how Republican voters will feel about it. Politicians cannot do the voting this year. To treat the will of the voters with contempt may prove, of all conceivable courses, the most unsafe.

No selfish or unworthy motive can enter into it. On the contrary the act itself betokens a wise and cultivated moral sense in its author and while thus an evidence of rectitude and benevolence, on the part of him who wills it, its effects upon those who are the recipients of its benefits are in both a special and moral view, most highly satisfactory and blessed. THE

Henry F. Miller PIANOS

The most successful Piano for the past twenty years.

[Musical Courier]

New York, March 5th, 1884

Within a few weeks the most accomplished amateur pianiste, in Boston, the daughter of the Lieutenant-Governor of the State, a lady of remarkable judgment, who cannot be influenced, determined to change one of her several grand pianos (a Chickering she had been using for some time) and her inclination was, to exchange it for a new one of the same manufacture. The grand piano she examined did not satisfy her demands as an artist and she visited the warerooms of Henry F. Miller, where she at once found a grand piano that combined all the elements—tone, touch, singing quality, power, etc.—which are necessary in a high grade instrument, and she purchased it in exchange for the Chickering grand.

This is not an ordinary case. In fact it looms up as one of the few extraordinary cases, where independent judgment is enabled to exercise its complete sway, and it thus points out the tendency of events. The Millers are aiming at an artistic elevation. Only patronage for the highest grade of workmanship is solicited. Elegant catalogue will be sent on application.

Another Candidate for Governor

AUGUSTA, April 30. The State Straight [illegible] Convention convened at 10 [illegible] this forenoon. About 75 delegates [illegible] Eaton, of Cape Elizabeth, [illegible] nominated for Governor, after the [illegible] had been tendered to John [illegible] Turner of [illegible]

Correspondence with Mr. Phelps.

A Spirited Rejoinder by the Latter.

[illegible] April 30. The following [illegible] recently passed between Senator Edmunds and Hon. Wm. Walter [Phelps].

WASHINGTON, April 28

[illegible] I have read your letter in defence of Mr Blaine in the Sunday Tribune [illegible] the editorial of the Tribune [illegible] you say, "Senator Edmunds [illegible] interest not to have a block of [illegible] Missouri securities and Senator Grimes acquired [illegible] in the Burlington & Missouri [illegible] they were in the Senate [illegible] the bill to restore the [illegible] road. These statements [illegible] with the rest of your [illegible] at the time of the [illegible] railroad or its securities [illegible] the Tribune states ex[illegible] your statement that thing [illegible] the Tribune are total[illegible] I have hunted up what [illegible] resolution to which [illegible] the Senate joint resolution [illegible] session of the 41st Con[gress] [illegible] no recollection what [illegible] looking at the [illegible] that time that I [illegible] on the subject of [illegible] consideration [illegible] never had before [illegible] interest in any bond or [illegible] or any other out of the [illegible] and never expected to [illegible] more connection with the [illegible] joint resolution than you [illegible] more than you, (which [illegible] thing at all, excepting [illegible] from the remark on [illegible] More than three [illegible] on the 13th of July [illegible] at my old books I [illegible] of stock and [illegible] of the Burlington & [illegible] River Railroad Company in [illegible] to the legislation re[illegible] the same price that all [illegible] had the stock for [illegible] when I sold it in the Boston [illegible] price and no more [illegible] bought more of [illegible] same company which I [illegible] story [illegible] by an ex[illegible] books of the company [illegible] [illegible] among men [illegible] I do not [illegible] accurate in [illegible] If you or anybody [illegible] concerning [illegible] happy to put you in pro[illegible] so that you will [illegible] may be true

Respectfully yours

GEO F EDMUNDS

[To Hon] Wm Walter Phelps House of [Representatives]

Mr Phelps Reply

[illegible] replies to Senator Edmunds [illegible] April 30th In his letter [illegible] If you think [illegible] your [illegible] illustration of a principle [illegible] hurt your reputation [illegible] of which you and the [illegible] will be proud and as I said [illegible] not and ought not hurt [illegible] The principle that I [illegible] illustrate was that a legislator [illegible] to refuse justice to a corporate [illegible] he happens to have some [illegible] property that may be benefited [illegible] wasn't necessarily a wrong [illegible] for a legislator to acquire an interest [illegible] property after legislative [illegible] which he assisted, and I cited as [illegible] your conduct and that of many [illegible] which neither I or any [illegible] I asked why such [illegible] favorable in Mr Blaine and [illegible]

[illegible] vote but take, so [illegible] Fort Smith Rail[road] [illegible] confirmed knowing [illegible] railroad at the time than I [illegible] three months after[wards] [illegible] interest in that [illegible] because the assent [illegible] and you were present to [illegible] land grant of the Burlington [illegible] railroad, knowing at that time [illegible] I did, for you de[illegible] You forgot the fact three months [illegible] You bought your interest in [illegible] The cases were so analogous that [illegible] proper to group them Had [illegible] of either of you [illegible] I should not have defended him [illegible]

[illegible] lack of [illegible] about other people I said [illegible] was understood to [have a block] of Burlington & Missouri [illegible] securities when he was in the Senate You say, "On the 13th of July 1869 I subscribed for one hundred and ninety five shares of stock and 86,000 bonds of the Burlington & Missouri Railroad." I am accurate in these statements, then only [illegible] you were not a member of the Senate on the 13th of July, 1869, in case the stocks and bonds do not constitute a block, I said "They both" (you and another) supported a bill to restore the lands to their road"

[illegible] on this point nothing inaccurate[illegible] only to say you voted against the bill. Had you done this I would [illegible] inaccuracy, but the official record shows you present and speaking on the resolution at the moment its passage and the record shows that it passed without a vote against it. If the Tribune misapprehended in saying you were in any way interested in the road at the time of the passage of the resolution, it is responsible and not I. I made no such representation, directly or by implication. I think my statements were as accurate as popular language could make them. Had I thought them "a charge" I could have used technical language of legal pleading, but such language would not have stated the facts more fairly.

I do not want to know anything of your business transactions except those facts which the public have long known and of which you need not be ashamed. Nor do I need any other evidence than your own word for anything you choose to communicate. The fact that you, like your great associates, do not escape the misrepresentation of the press has never shaken my confidence in your honor and honesty.

Yours very truly,

WM. WALTER PHELPS.

POLITICAL.

New Hampshire Republicans.

CONCORD, N. H., April 30. The Republican State Convention was called to order by Chairman Gallinger, of the State Committee, at 11 15 this forenoon. B. F. Prescott, of Epping, presided, and addressed the convention

The resolutions commend Arthur's administration, and condemn a horizontal reduction of the tariff. They condemn polygamy, and demand a suspension of silver coinage.

Six hundred and seventeen delegates were present. Charles H Sawyer, elected delegate-at-large is for Edmunds, Arthur a second choice Hon. Geo H Stowell, the second delegate chosen is for Blaine first, Arthur second choice. Before the result of third ballot was announced Hon. O. C. Moore charged that fraud had been practiced There was intense excitement, and the count showed that there was no choice for third delegate

After order was restored the ballot was declared by the chairman as follows: Whole number, 587, necessary for choice, 294; scattering, 106 Charles H Canning, 76, John L Pearly, 122, Edward H Rollins, 203, and no choice

On the fourth ballot Edward H Rollins was elected third delegate at large. He is a pronounced Arthur man.

Jos B Clark, of Manchester, was elected the fourth delegate at large He is for Edmunds and opposed to Blaine The following alternates were chosen J H Hurd, Dover, Geo H Balcom, Claremont; Geo P Rowell Lancaster, H W Greene, Hopkinton The Convention then adjourned

Massachusetts Republicans

BOSTON, April 30 The Republican State Convention was called to order at 11 o clock by Chairman Lodge of the State Committee, there being a very large attendance Lodge was made temporary chairman and on taking the chair spoke briefly At his conclusion the usual committees were appointed

Whitman, of Haverhill, offered a resolution which was referred to the Committee on Resolution, declaring that a change in the existing tariff laws would be unwise and inexpedient, and that [a] reduction, if necessary, should not be upon the horizontal basis

The permanent organization was then announced, Hon John D Long being introduced as permanent President His address occupied an hour

The resolutions declared adherence to the political principles set forth by the party in the last six administrations, and advocate tariff laws "which shall favor labor and industrial enterprises." Reduction of the revenue, while essential, should be made with the least possible injury to manufactures The arbitrary percentage reduction proposed would cripple industries and increase the revenue The continued coinage of silver and issue of silver certificates is declared dangerous to finance Civil service reform as so far accomplished, is rejoiced over, and the resolutions insist on its extension to both State and city affairs President Arthur's services are commended The Presidential candidate must be a man whose record will need no defence and who will command the party's whole support

Delegates at large were elected on the first ballot as follows Geo F Hoar, Worcester, 1048, W W Crapo, New Bedford 1034 John D Long, Hingham, 978, Henry Cabot Lodge, Nahant, 981 The following alternates were then elected, Benjamin S Lovell, B J Powers, H H Grinnell, colored, J W Higginson

Massachusetts Democrats

WORCESTER April 30 The Democratic State Convention met in Mechanics' Hall to-day About five hundred delegates are present Hon N A Plympton called the convention to order and at once delivered an address At the conclusion Hon Ed ward Avery was presented as presiding officer, and he made no address A motion was made and adopted to ballot for four delegates-at-large, and a committee was appointed to receive the ballots A motion declaring it the sense of the convention that Butler should be nominated for the Presidency was carried

The following is the result of the ballot for delegates Ben F Butler had 564 Josiah G. Abbott, 603 W J McCafferty, 379, James Delaney 353 and they were declared elected delegates at large Blaine First Choice.

NORFOLK, VA., April 30 The Republicans of the third Congressional district elected delegates to Chicago. They are unInstructed, but the Convention voted for Blaine as its first choice

THE CANADIAN EXODUS

Thousands of People Migrating to the United States

MONTREAL, QUE, April 30. The exodus of French Canadians from the province to the eastern and western states continues to marvellously increase The number leaving this city daily, chiefly in families with their household effects, is 150, and from Quebec the number is stated to be much greater The local press, and even the government organ here is giving attention to the subject and calling for immediate application of remedies by both the Dominion and Provincial governments to stop the depopulation Heretofore it was only young people who emigrated, but this year parents and even grandparents are in the exodus Resident Dominion Immigration Agent, John Lesperance recognizes the fact of the departure of hundreds of the inhabitants in an elaborate letter in the Gazette the government organ here, to-day, and appeals most strongly for modifications in the land laws by which home steads can be easily obtained in accessible districts as an inducement for young men to remain The Dominion government got Parliament last session to vote large subsidies to colonization of railroads in all the best sections of the province but it seems more assistance is needed to keep the inhabitants from deserting the country Migration, as in Ireland, is said to be needed for those who are living on exhausted lands.

BURIAL OF THE INNOCENTS

An Insane Mother's Last Look at Her Murdered Children

PHILADELPHIA, Pa, April 30. Three thousand people attended the funeral at Phillipsburg, N. J., of the two children, Willie and Edward Barnett, who were murdered by their insane mother last Saturday The two little bodies were laid out in the bed chamber, where the fearful tragedy occurred Lace ruffles concealed the deep gashes in the throat and breasts left by the mother's knife The murderess, whose own life was saved by the prompt intervention of the neighbors, has since been strictly guarded, and the efforts of several men have been necessary to prevent her tearing out the surgeon's stitches in her throat As the crowds of people passed through the little farm house where the bodies lay she roused herself sufficiently to beg to see her children for the last time. She was held firmly by two men and carried to the coffins, when she kissed the infant faces several times "How, how could I have killed you, my precious ones" Later in the day she refused to take nourishment, and seemed likely to follow her children to the grave. She is not likely to survive

SEARSPORT ITEMS Mr J H Whitten met with a serious accident on Friday, while returning from the post-office His horse took fright at a dog playing with a piece of board and ran away throwing Mr Whitten out and injuring him quite severely. NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING Between the hours of twelve and one, last night, cries for help attracted the attention of those at the WHIG office and an investigation led to the discovery that a man was in the stream In the darkness it was difficult to locate exactly the sound but it was finally found that the man was near the easterly shore, some little distance below Kenduskeag stream A long plank was reached down to him and by seizing hold of this he was able to support himself until the arrival of a boat in charge of the police. When rescued he was very weak and could not have held out much longer His name is James Hurley and he hails from Woodstock While considerably the worse off for liquor he stumbled off the wharf. There was considerable delay in finding a boat and it seems as if there ought to be a craft kept in the immediate vicinity of Kenduskeag Bridge which could be readily brought into requisition if occasion should require

STATE CONVENTION.

Magnificent Assemblage of Maine Republicans.

1134 Delegates Present in Norombega Hall.

Hon. Frederick Robie Re-nominated for Governor by Acclamation.

MASTERLY ADDRESS BY ORVILLE D. BAKER, ESQ.

Strong Blaine Delegates Elected to the National Convention.

Eloquent and Patriotic Speech by Gov. Robie.

The Day's Proceedings Characterized by Great Enthusiasm

THE STRONG PLATFORM ADOPTED.

A Detailed Report of the Convention.

A large number of delegates were in the city Tuesday night, and the number was augmented by arrivals by the regular early trains and by other conveyances The Piscataquis delegates came in on the regular afternoon train, and the special from the West, which arrived at half past eleven, brought a large crowd By noon the body of Norombega Hall was packed, not only the seats, but the standing room being fully occupied, while large numbers were in the galleries

At ten minutes past twelve the convention was called to order by Col George C Wing, chairman of the Republican State Committee, who read the call for the convention Prayer was offered by Rev G M Parks, of Presque Isle, a delegate to the convention

Col. Wing then nominated, on the part of the State Committee, as temporary chairman of the convention, Orville D. Baker, Esq., of Augusta

Mr. Baker accepted the chair, addressing the convention substantially as follows

ADDRESS OF MR BAKER

Mr Chairman and gentlemen of the Convention, I am deeply sensible of the distinguished honor you have conferred upon me by electing me, one of the youngest members of the convention, for this important position I recognize in it something far deeper than a mere personal tribute, I recognize in it a tribute to the staunch old county of Kennebec, which under all circumstances has proved faithful, and without a shadow of turning I recognize in it also a tribute to the great body of the young men of the party who, year after year, have borne it to triumph They bring to the party every year their enthusiasm, they contribute to it that cultured and educated thought that helps to guide the party aright, and they are to-day the hope of the Republic, and in them, more than in aught else, does the Republican party see a future as glorious as its present or past

But not alone have we the young men. We have the old and trusted leaders, veterans, old and scarred in the Republican faith Side by side in this convention the Nestor sits with Achilles, invincible in fight

Now, why is it that, year after year, from every village, every town, every hamlet throughout the borders of the State, gentlemen who have no personal interests to serve, come up here to attend these conventions? It is no small thing to see the business of the State interrupted as it is to-day, in sending here from every county in the State, delegates to voice the sentiments of their constituencies

There are no contests for place to bring out this vast assemblage The administration of this State, during the past two years, has been dignified and able, and our honored Chief Magistrate will to-day be put in renomination by this convention, and the people of this State will send him back once more by an old-time majority.

Why then, I repeat, do we assemble thus in the absence of any contest or excitement? Why this sea of faces of representative men of this State? Because we are members of one common party—a party of whose record we are not ashamed. It was founded on the great idea of human rights, has been rocked in the cradle of civil war and baptized in the blood of the defenders of our country. A party cannot live upon its past record alone Yesterday is irrecoverable, to-day alone is ours. The principles of the Republican party are as vital to-day as in the first days of its organization The work of the party is not yet quite achieved. The rights of citizens must be respected, in every part of the country. The right of a free ballot has been bequeathed to us by the elders of the Republican faith and we must carry it forward to completion

Every subject of business importance looks to the Republican party. Vainly they turn to the Democratic House of Congress for relief. The Republican party believes in the principles of enlightened civil service, which gives to every man the position which he has earned and for which he is fitted. It believes in the appreciation of business principles—politics in business and business in politics. Not the kind of civil service which believes in giving places to the cats who want to get in. Point out a solitary measure of true civil service in the Democratic party. The able Senator from Ohio, who was the only man among them to bring forward a bill for a civil service reform was repudiated by his party The policy of the Democratic party prostrated business by exporting gold and putting a debased silver currency in its place Boards of Trade called for a return to the honest dollar, but they knocked at the door of Congress in vain They asked for bread and were given a stone. The Republican party should place itself squarely on this question by a repeal of the silver coinage act, which injures alike the laborer and the capitalist. Next and last is, the principle of protection to American industries Farms of Maine which raise grass and forests of Maine which furnish lumber are not protected by the Democratic Congress What do we see? Hay free, lumber free Prostrate these great industries, cut them down so that they will get no more protection and you will strike down your young and growing industries The people are filled with distrust of the Democratic party In the Republican party they have faith It says to the Democratic party, "Strike no blow at American industries, stand by the enlightened civil service, give us an honest and stable currency" These are the principles about which we cluster, and these answer the question why we are here.

We are about to enter upon a great and exciting Presidential contest We do not need to say that the Republicans of Maine will support the nominee of the Chicago Convention, from whatever section he may come Many able men are spoken of in connection with the nomination Mr Sherman, the eminent statesman and financier, the Senator from Vermont, [illegible] ter of the law, able and skilled in the dialectics of the forum, side by side with Logan of Illinois, who never lacked the courage of his convictions, even in the President's chair, where he was called in a terrible emergency to fill [the] place of great responsibility, and which he has done in a manner reflecting the highest credit on himself, we find that these names are used in connection with the nomination But beyond these, past the Senators in their chamber past the President in the White House sweeps the sentiment of the people, and lays its homage and swings its ten thousand censers before James G Blaine (Immense cheering) Here, from this remote State of the East the great people of this country stoop before that one man who has no political position and no office in his gift It is not an unexampled spectacle Mr [illegible] son was taken from a public position which he ably filled; the star of the great Clay was still blazing high in the heavens of his brilliant success General Grant in 1868 was fresh from the fields of Appomattox, Taylor came to the President's chair flushed with victory from the fields of Monterey and Buena Vista, and now comes forward a man in the quarters of literary quiet Pennsylvania and Ohio, the great Northwest, have declared him to be their chosen leader in the coming conflict and now it devolves upon his own State to send his name up once more with three times three

We have seen him as he climbed height after height of fame and wrapped himself with fame as with a mantle Samson like he has snapped asunder the withes [of] [illegible] with which they have sought to [bind] him We have seen him in the House [illegible] the Senate, in the seat of Secretary of State, endeavoring by a wise [illegible] to promote a commercial union between our country and the countries of North and South America, thus opening up markets for the products of our industries Step by step we have watched his course, and to-day we send him, though [illegible] the greeting, "The Republicans of this State stand by James G Blaine, of Maine" (Tremendous cheering)

Again thanking you for the honor you have conferred upon me, I am ready to attend the pleasure of this convention

Mr Swazey of Canton Two years ago, actuated by an earnest desire to redeem the State from the disgrace of a bald disregard for law, the Republicans selected for their standard bearer Hon Frederick Robie. They fought earnestly and won a victory as important and decisive as any one ever achieved For two years the present Governor, devoted to the best interests of the people and identified with every interest of the State, has served with ability and to the great satisfaction of the people of the State and I but voice the sentiment of the people when I present for nomination for the coming term, by acclamation, the name of our present Chief Magistrate Hon Frederick Robie

Mr. Clarence Hale of Portland said I heartily second the nomination which has been made This is not a mere formality that I we have to perform here to-day Referring to the circumstances of his nomination two years ago and the nomination then being attended with so signal a success, he said A leader should have two things, he should be bold in his purposes and should be prompt in his action How amply his two years of service had justified all we hoped and filled out the two qualities all were ready to admit He heartily seconded the nomination and pledged the convention to his re-election by an old time majority

Hon John L Stevens, of Augusta, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported the following resolutions, which were adopted

The Republicans of Maine hold that the United States is one Nation and not a league of States; and that the National Government is charged with the duty of securing the equal rights guaranteed by the Constitution and promoting the welfare of the people

We believe that it is the duty of the Nation to secure to every qualified voter without distinction of race or color, the right to cast a free ballot, and to have that ballot counted

Resolved That from the establishment of our National Government to the present time the judgment of our best statesmen and the experience of the country have favored an American policy which collects the national revenues mainly on foreign importations, imposed in a manner to give protection to American skill and labor, to build up our manufactures, to augment the volume of our combined internal and foreign commerce, to expand our network of railroads thus increasing the value of our agriculture and all the legitimate interests of American labor and capital.

Resolved, That the great number of official agents necessary to the administration of the affairs of a people so numerous and possessing interests so varied and vast as those of the United States demand that our Civil Service should be controlled by strictly business principles, that it should have every improvement indicated by experience and patriotism, and if any further legislation is required to render it safe from the encroachments and dangers of partisan strife, Congress should promptly provide such legislation, and the President and his constitutional advisers should enforce it in spirit and letter

Resolved, That our relations with foreign powers should be managed with sagacity, firmness, and prudence, so as most certainly to secure the blessings of peace and that respect to which the United States is justly entitled among the nations of the world.

Resolved, That holding firmly to the spirit and purport of the foregoing resolutions, the Republicans of Maine present to the choice of the National Republican Convention for Presidential candidate, Hon. James G. Blaine, the wise statesman, the gifted Republican leader, the patriotic citizen, who would administer the executive affairs of the Government in a manner to command [illegible] of the Republic.

Resolved, That the efficient and patriotic administration of President Arthur commends itself to the approval of the Republicans of Maine

Resolved, That the course of the Democratic majority in Congress on the Morrison Tariff Bill, which strikes a fatal blow at the lumbering interests of the State, and on the Shipping Bill, which exposes to a destructive foreign competition the extensive and valuable business of Maine, receives from this Convention the severest disapprobation.

Resolved, That the course of our Senators and Representatives in Congress has our cordial approbation. We commend their fidelity and conspicuous ability in maintaining the cause of the Republican party And we especially recommend them to the favor and confidence of the citizens on account of their intelligent and powerful support of measures which are essential to the prosperity of the great industries of Maine, and the welfare of all the people

Resolved That the prudent faithful and effective manner in which Hon Frederick Robie has cared for the various interests of the State during his occupancy of the Executive chair, receives the emphatic indorsement of the Republicans of Maine and commends him to all patriotic citizens for a triumphant re-election in September

Resolved That this Convention request the coming Republican National Convention to provide that, in all future National conventions representation shall be proportion to the Republican votes cast for President at the last preceding President[ial] election.

We re-affirm our approval of the policy of prohibiting the dram-shop and our sympathy with every judicious movement looking to the amelioration of the evils of intemperance

Resolved, That this Convention is in favor of any practicable legislation necessary to clothe the Governor and Council with ample power to enable them to take efficient steps to protect the farming and stock raising interests of the State from contagious disease among cattle and to eradicate any such disease at the public expense, should it ever come within our borders

Mr Walton, of Somerset in feeling remarks presented a resolution in regard to the death of Hon S D Lindsey

Mr Webb, of Waterville seconded the resolution, paying an eulogy [illegible] to the deceased

Mr Walter Allen of Portland testified to the esteem in which Mr Lindsey was held in Washington.

The resolution in relation to Mr Lindsey was then given a passage

At this point, Mr Hall of the committee to wait upon the Governor entered the hall with him, his appearance being greeted with great applause

The chair said "It is a great pleasure to introduce to the Convention the present and next Governor of the State of Maine

The Governor then addressed the convention as follows

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR ROBIE

The action of this convention in nominating me as the Republican candidate for Governor is known to you all and there [illegible] has been officially communicated to me by your committee.

This act of continued confidence I return my grateful acknowledgments A [illegible] particularly the experience of the past two years, has not lessened my appreciation of the grave responsibilities and onerous duties connected with the position I accept the nomination and if elected, it will be my earnest purpose to discharge the varied requirements of the office faithfully and economically, and with single purpose to aid in securing honest administration of public affairs the greatest advantage to the people of our State I recognize that all of my predecessors who have heretofore [illegible] ably filled the highest office in the gift of the State The useful lessons which their experience [illegible] the [illegible] and guiding our [illegible] upward course of continued prosperity

At our last State Convention two years ago [illegible] at his appointed work The [illegible] just Governor and [illegible] the Senate, the Hon Lot M Morrill has finished his responsible work on earth and it was well to be. He was just and [illegible] and was [illegible] Another noble man of powerful intellect and true loyalty the late Hon Israel Washburn, Jr, the war governor of Maine has passed away and is honored remains sleep peacefully on the banks of the Penobscot among people where his integrity and early usefulness laid the foundations of a distinguished reputation and lasting fame. The valuable public services of these men are written on the pages of the history of our State, and will ever be perpetuated in the memory of the hearts of this people Their example should be the guiding star for those who conduct the public affairs of our State

I look back with satisfaction upon the proud record of the Republican party for the last twenty five years I have always been and am now, in perfect accord with its principles The platform which you have adopted to-day is in harmony with its past traditions Upon this platform we shall secure the support of a majority of at least fifteen thousand voters of this State The [illegible] double decade between 1860 and 1880 furnished a political tradition which creates the necessity for a party devoted to the supremacy of national and constitutional law the living exponent of a public sentiment everywhere opposed to slavery and true to the interests of universal liberty

At a critical period in our country's history, as if by an edict from Heaven the Republican party was called into existence for a Divine purpose It has been true and loyal to its mission during one of the most trying periods that ever disturbed a civilized nation The Republican party has been in power and has ruled the Nation and State, [illegible] for a quarter of a century It has furnished the strongest reasons for gratitude which unite the [illegible] of its country [illegible] First [illegible] the Union, and [illegible] a [illegible] human slavery from our land First in peace [illegible] in [illegible] its prosperity and [illegible] First in the hearts of our countrymen" for to-day, thanks to the Republican party we are the strongest and most powerful nation in the civilized world It is not too much to say that if [illegible] party is entitled to the credit for the preservation of this Union, and our homes, it is the grand old Republican party We have the best financial and banking system that ever existed The American laborer is protected and the agricultural and various industries of our country are prosperous

The people of Maine have ever been patriotic. During the Revolutionary war every third male inhabitant was in the Continental army During the war of the Rebellion, seventy-five thousand of our sons were in the Union army They voted as they fought, for when called upon by a constitutional enactment in 1864, to deposit their ballots while in the field for President, our brave soldiers cast 4,174 ballots for Abraham Lincoln and only 738 for another candidate This is a significant fact, but I do not intend to reflect unjustly on the party preferences of our soldiers for they were all brave men [illegible] furnish us with sufficient evidence that our State is making commendable progress in all of its material interests. True we live in a northern latitude and under a cold sky

Winter, for many months holds in its icy embrace our rivers and lakes, and it lingers long in the lap of spring, but we have many compensations. Our climate has developed a hardy race of men and women, having strong constitutions, iron wills and a general intelligence of a high order Over sixty-four thousand farms are owned and cultivated by the farmers who occupy them. The character of the homes of the people is the surest indication of thrift, contentment and happiness The log cabins of our fathers have given place to substantial dwellings and cottages surrounded by evidences of comfort, refinement and luxury Proprietorship in lands is the prime source of happiness Let us rejoice in the progress our State has made Representing a population of 648,000 we find that 500,000 were born in the United States, and 503,000 are natives of the State of Maine. We therefore are surrounded by and inherit the strong element of the original New England character, and let the faith, loyalty, and intelligence of our New England fathers continue to be the basis of all our political actions. We want temperance and sobriety in our midst, and such laws enacted and enforced as will best prohibit rum selling and protect our State from its untold evils. We want the best regulation of the civil service. We want such a tariff as will protect the agricultural laborer, the mechanic and artisan and the substantial industries of the country. All public laws are radically defective that primarily do not have a just regard for the interest of the producing and working classes We want popular education sustained by laws making illiteracy unknown, and the government thereby strengthened and sustained by the force of an intelligent ballot We want a reliable and safe currency, and a sound banking system We want our lives and property protected, independence and safety secured to our homes, and to have our National flag honored and respected by all the nations of the Earth We want equal and just taxation and all unnecessary burdens removed We want cheap transportation, and the great public thoroughfares of the country run in the interests of the people We want cheap land, and our national domain held for [illegible] use God intended this world for the use and happiness of its inhabitants and any Government who favors land monopoly is unworthy the confidence of any progressive civilization The grand mission of the Republican party will not be complete until these wants are satisfied [illegible] the man of our choice, our devoted friend and beloved fellow-citizen, the [illegible] statesman and scholar, Hon James G Blaine the just exponent of [illegible] principles, shall be selected to be the national standard bearer, we will follow him enthusiastically to a certain victory Should another Republican [illegible] be selected by the National Convention at Chicago we shall accept its judgment like good soldiers, and stand by the front ranks of the line of battle use all honorable means to secure a glorious victory.

On motion of Mr Manley, of Augusta, the convention voted that the State Committee be authorized to fill any vacancies in the electoral ticket

Gen James A Hall moved that the thanks of the convention be tendered to the presiding and other officers for the able manner in which they had discharged their duties Carried by a rising vote

Three cheers were then called for and given with a will for James G. Blaine after which the convention adjourned

Mr Baker presided throughout the convention with an ability and skill worthy of a veteran in the business and dispatched the business of the convention in the briefest possible time

IT'S A FACT.

Hundreds of letters in our possession (copies of which may be had by return mail) are our authority for the assertion that Skin, Scalp and Blood Humors, whether Scrofulous, Inherited or Constitutional, may NOW be permanently cured by CUTICURA, the new Blood Purifier, Diuretic and Aperient, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the great Skin Cures and Beautifiers, externally, in one half the time and at one half the expense of any other season.

Cuticura Remedies are the greatest manufactures on earth. Had I universal cure will effect all my neighbors. My mother had it twenty years, and had almost given up in despair. I believe Cuticura would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for eleven years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the Cuticura Remedies internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. J. W. ADAMS, Newark, O.

GREAT BLOOD MEDICINES.

The fact has not been told as to the great curative powers of the Cuticura Remedies. I have sold hundreds of dollars' worth of medicines to cure all kinds of the blood and skin, but never found anything yet to equal the Cuticura Remedies. CHAS A. WILLIAMS, Pharmacist, Rochester, N. H.

CURE IN EVERY CASE.

Your Cuticura Remedies baffled all other medicines I ever tried. All diseases, all customers and all physicians that have seen them say the same. Shame on any other remedies have failed. H. W. BROCKWAY, M. D. Franklin Falls, N. H.

AN APPEAL FOR

IMPROVED CATTLE CARS.

The United States has to protect animals during transportation by rail provides that, when they are carried in cars in which they can be fed, watered, and have rest, the requirement that animals be unloaded every 28 hours, and then rested five hours, shall not apply to animals so carried. The law provides that the Company shall charge no more for carrying stock in cars SO FAR AS IT APPLIES THERETO by the Railroad Co.'s, and its existence and enforcement, than the lowest rates it collects for carrying stock in cars not so fitted, but the reliability of the shipping public is attended with much certainty. It is found hard to get the poor creatures back into cars when they have already an offered, without injury, or worse.

To meet this want of an improved car the Ambler Stock Car Association was organized, with a capital of one thousand dollars ($1,000) for such purpose. The distinguishing feature of the Ambler stock car is the ability of the cattle, after the 28 hours, to lie down on the floor of the car, thereby relieving the pressure on the weaker cattle. The car is also provided with a water tank, from which the cattle can be watered in the car, without being taken out. The car is also provided with a feed box, from which the cattle can be fed in the car, without being taken out. The car is also provided with a water tank, from which the cattle can be watered in the car, without being taken out. To Any One in Bangor in

POOR HEALTH,

I SAY: READ THIS.

I have from time to time printed testimonials from well-known and reliable residents of Bangor, who bear witness as to the wonderful power of

over all forms of Kidney, Liver, Blood, and stomach difficulties. So confident am I of the ability of this preparation to cure all diseases of these organs, such as Pain in the Back, Bearing down Pain, Constipation, Jaundice, Sick Headache, Sickness at the Stomach, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Salt Rheum, Canker, Cancer, Scrofula, and particularly all diseases peculiar to the female sex, that I agree to refund the money in each and every case where does not do all claimed.

There is no better general corrective, no better invigorating, enlivening Spring Tonic.

Your attention is called to the following statement from one of our county officials whose reliability is beyond question.

Respectfully yours,

ARA WARREN,

Wholesale and Retail Druggist.

Our County Treasurer's Statement.

B. B. Thomas, Esq., Treasurer of the County of Penobscot, is well known to all as a thoroughly reliable gentleman. When about twenty-one years of age Mr. Thomas lost by accident, his right arm. Later in life he was thrown from a wagon by a vicious horse, and still later, while painting his house, the ladder broke down, seriously injuring his hip. Few men would be blessed with constitutions that could stand such a series of accidents, and it is no wonder that Mr. Thomas, now 63 years of age, should feel at times out of sorts. He was recommended to try and purchased one bottle. As Mr. Thomas resides in Hampden, while his office is in the Court House in Bangor, he divided the medicine, leaving a portion in each place, and took it faithfully. Mr. Thomas says that owing to Brown's Sarsaparilla, and nothing else, he has been healed of a liver trouble, and says the action of the stomach, which has been poor, is now in perfect order—says he feels better than for years; says his friends mention the fact that he is looking better this spring than for years, and he tells them Brown's Sarsaparilla did it. Mr. Thomas will substantiate any of the above statements if you call on him. We will only add that we cannot hope for a more convincing, reliable testimony than the one Mr. Thomas gives, and are more than ever convinced that Brown's Sarsaparilla is far superior to any known article for diseases of the Blood, Kidneys and Liver. It revives the vitality and is a gentle, yet powerful stimulant of the various organs of the body.
